The aims of Joining the Dots: Creating Entrepreneurial Networks are:

- to rise awareness of young workers about occupational safety and health,
- to promote entrepreneurship with healthy workplaces,
- to promote sustainable work and healthy aging from the start of the working life,
- to prevent health problems from the start of the working life throughout the working life,
- to encourage the exchange of information and good practice.

The training course for all partners will be based, and implemented from 26th February 2017 and to 3th March 2017, in one of the oldest, most entrepreneurial cities in the world - London - a city that has been the centre of trade for over 2000 years.

Through the partnerships with young people we have together developed e-learning materials in all sectors which may help young workers to prepare for their first job or establish own business with accent on safe working conditions. Promoting and organising educational seminars/workshops of occupational safety and health that motivates and engages young workers in entrepreneurial activities with healthy workplaces.

At the end of this project, we are expected 10% less injures and diseases youth in first year at work (apprentice). Methodology of that is research of students at beginning of this project, and next 10 years. They will make research number of injures at practice in school, injures at first year at work, people in pension because diseases and injures at work, worker with diseases and injures at work.

We invite all to joinig us from 26th February 2017 and to 3th March 2017 in Windmill Lane, Cheshunt, Hertfordshire, EN8 9AJ Tel: +44 345 371 9057.
